The 1997 Waigani Seminar “Information and the Nation” is on the web at <http://www.pngbuai.com/600technology/information/default.htm>

2008-

As there has been a break since 1997 it may be worth calling this “the new series”

This would be beneficial as the approach and method of organization also represent a break in the continuity of practice. A “scope note” would illustrate these changes.

This would enable us to reprint all the previous seminars in CD format. Arrangements are in hand – Google has already done a few for us!!

As discussed but not picked up in the minutes of the meeting held 16th May -- Emeritus Prof. Crocombe who organized the first Waigani seminar (and has a continued interest in these things) is able to attend and would be an excellent addition to the reviewing slot – with Prof. Wolfers. Ron May of ANU has also had very long involvement with Waigani Seminars and has made it to the Editorial list – he should also be able to attend.

All of these gentlemen have made extensive contributions to the book field in PNG and the Pacific so would also participate in the events organized in the bookshop. Crocombe will be able to launch two of his books – Asia in the Pacific and South Pacific 8th ed. at the bookshop. Ron May will be able to brief us on ANU epress. Wolfers has a book or two up his sleeve.

As suggested in earlier memo – Kevin Bradley – could be slightly better placed in the line up.
